About

Alex Perdomo discovered his passion in architecture at a very young age even before understanding the concept of being an ‘Architectural Designer’. “I was given a school project assignment at the age of 11 where we were asked to build little houses out of match boxes; I was immediately captivated by the experience and recall telling my parents this is what I want to do when I grow up”.

At age 13 his family moved to New York City where his passion for architecture only deepened as he found himself mesmerized by the City’s amazing architecture surroundings. With New York City as his backyard, he eagerly began his quest to learn all about architecture and anxiously started planning out his career. At age 16 he enrolled in a summer study program for Interior Design at FIT. That same year he won a coveted spot at the competitive Cooper Union Architecture Program for High School Seniors. Alex attended the Architecture School at Andrews University in Michigan where he received a Bachelor degree in Architecture and Graphic Design. He participated in several study abroad programs including Europe, the Middle East, and South America where he honed his appreciation for diversity in architecture design.

Upon his return to NYC, Alex worked for several high-end residential Architecture and Interior Design Firms under the collaboration of great mentors. Early in his career, Alex joined a NYC Residential Architecture Firm as a Lead Designer where he later became an Associate. Armed with his passion and knowledge for everything architectural and decorative arts and furniture, Alex made the leap to launch his own Architectural Interiors design studio Alexandro Perdomo Design founded in 2009.
